

Would being involved with a Miniature Railway suit you?

The Sydney Live Steam Locomotive Society Co-op Ltd is a model engineering society that operates a miniature railway one day a month for the public.

The Society is wholly dependent on its members. Without their active assistance we would not be able to provide our public days as we do. Voluntary work allows us to achieve the high standards that the public enjoy. It also provides a great venue for teamwork and friendships. Members have a wide variety of skills that are practiced through the grounds and in our operations.

Are you retiring? Are you looking for a worthwhile yet enjoyable way to spend your valuable spare time? Are you interested in being active and practical?

The Society is based upon the hobby of Model Engineering and many of the members make their own locomotives and maintain the engineering aspects of the railway. Other members have an interest in being a part of running the railway. This can include selling tickets, running the kiosk, being signaller, station master or guard, maybe even a driver! The pleasant grounds make birthday parties and visits by our patrons very pleasant, and this is achieved by regularly looking after the grounds and gardens, from simply mowing the grass to tending planned native gardens and traditional English station gardens.

Other tasks include maintaining the facilities including the seats and fences and keeping the place spick and span with a fresh coat of paint. While being a tradesman or a professional may help, most of us are just amateurs!

Formal membership applications are usually made after experiencing being a part of the group for a while to get to know us and be sure you wish to join. After 12 months, members vote on the membership application, so it is important you are well known amongst the members.

Full details regarding membership (as well as our railway) are available on the society's web site. If you are interested why not email us sydneylivesteam@bigpond.com or pop along one Saturday to have a chat (best not a running day), and see what we do!
